BISHOP COTTON TAKES UP GREEN CAUSE

Conserve My Campus, an initiative at Bishop Cotton Boys' School, was held on Saturday to address the crisis of the planet, which is melting faster than it can be handled.

Hema Hattangady, vice-chairman and CEO of Conzerv System, said:

"Conserve My Campus is a participative programme that teaches children the importance of conserving energy and arresting global warming through small but measurable steps towards making our planet a better place to live in."

"The programme empowers students who are the future generation and grooms them to spread the message of effective energy management and environment conservation in their homes, schools and in the neighbourhood.

This programme targets students of classes 5, 6 and 7 and also college students," she added.

The participating schools are in Delhi, Mumbai and Bangalore. The chosen schools stood together, called the Green Republic. The students are Green Ambassadors.

Kamala T N, programme director, said: "The Green Ambassadors are also groomed and trained to conduct energy audits, evaluate energy consumption at homes, conduct green certification of their schools and participate in team activities like presentations and group discussions." TNN
